Senior Catholic, 90, one of six activists, including singer Denise Ho, fined for failing to register the fund.

Cardinal Joseph Zen and five other Hong Kong activists have been found guilty of failing to register a multimillion-dollar support fund they established to help people arrested in 2019s pro-democracy protests get legal support.

A court on Friday fined five of the group 4,000 Hong Kong dollars ($512) for failing to properly register the fund as a society, while a sixth was fined a smaller amount.
