Political structures functioning as the continuation of the Ethniki Organosis Kyprion Agoniston (EOKA) terrorist group, as well as other far-right parties in the Greek Cypriot administration and Greece, are fueling the black propaganda against Turks and Türkiye on the divided island, according to a Turkish professor.

The EOKA mentality is still being preserved both in the political arena and in daily life, professor İsmail Şahin, the head of the International Crisis Research Center, told Anadolu Agency (AA) on the 70th anniversary of the terrorist groups foundation.

Although EOKA is not an active organization today, its ideologies are still alive in the political arena, and this political entity triggers hostility toward Turks on the Greek side, Şahin argued.
