Ersin Tatar thanks departing UN envoy Colin Stewart for open stance, criticizes Greek Cypriot side for not showing intent to reach solution

Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus President Ersin Tatar on Tuesday reiterated his insistence on a two-state solution on Cyprus, emphasizing that the Greek Cypriot side has shown no intention to reach a solution.

Tatar reiterated his stance as he received Colin Stewart, the UN secretary-general's Cyprus envoy and head of the UN Peacekeeping Force, for a farewell visit as Stewart is stepping down on Saturday.
