The 16th meeting of the Joint Working Group on Strategic Cooperation between Kazakhstan Railways and Russian Railways was held in Vladivostok (Russia), during which the parties identified priority areas for strategic collaboration, Trend reports via Kazakhstan Railways.

The parties discussed issues within the framework of bilateral cooperation in the field of railway transport, including the situation at border junctions, the organization of locomotive operations and crews, and the increase in freight volumes using electronic consignment notes.

The sides also discussed draft agreements on the development of International Railway Transport Corridors (IRTC) up to 2030 and the development of the eastern route of the North International Transport Corridor, which are planned to be signed by the end of this year.
