China and Malaysia will hold joint military exercises later this month in Malaysia and surrounding waters, Beijings Defense Ministry said on Wednesday.

The drills, dubbed Peace and Friendship-2025, will take place in mid-to-late October 2025, according to a statement carried by Chinas state-run Global Times.

The exercise will center on humanitarian assistance, disaster relief, and maritime security, bringing together multi-service forces from both countries for live-action training.
