The Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) has in recent years stepped up efforts to consolidate its institutions and boost its international visibility.

Cooperation with Türkiye in energy, technology, and defense [] with expanding cultural diplomacy across the Turkic world—illustrates a broader push to project stability and continuity.

A turning point came in 2024, when the TRNC began to actively use its observer status within the Organization of Turkic States (OTS). That move signaled not just a symbolic gesture but the opening of a new phase in its foreign policy.
