Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan has travelled to Sharm El-Sheikh, Egypt, to participate in a Middle East Peace Summit focused on ending the war in the Gaza Strip.

He announced the trip on his Facebook page, writing: I am heading to Sharm El-Sheikh to take part in the Middle East Peace Summit, Caliber.Az reports.

In late September, U.S. President Trump put forward a 20-point "Comprehensive End of Gaza War" plan, outlining phased exchanges of all 48 remaining hostages ██████████ 20 alive and 28 bodies ████ around 2,000 Palestinian prisoners starting October 11, partial Israeli troop withdrawals, Hamas disarmament, increased humanitarian aid, and international oversight for reconstruction and a two-state solution framework. Indirect talks in Sharm el-Sheikh from October 7 to 9, mediated by Egypt, Qatar, and Türkiye, initiated Phase 1 on October 10, with 12 hostages released on October 11 via the Rafah crossing.
