The international liberal order is ending. In fact, it may already be dead. White House Deputy Chief of Staff Stephen Miller said as much last week as he gloated over the U.S. intervention in Venezuela and the capture of dictator Nicolás Maduro: We live in a world * that is governed by strength, that is governed by force, that is governed by power *. These are the iron laws of the world.

But Americas 47th president is equally responsible for another death — that of the united West.

And while Europes leaders have fallen over themselves to sugarcoat U.S. President Donald Trumps illegal military operation in Venezuela and ignore his brazen demands on Greenland, Europeans themselves have already realized Washington is more foe than friend.
