Caliber (4 February 2026)

Armenias revised Constitution is expected to be completed within the next six months, Justice Minister Srбуhi Galyan said.

Speaking at a press conference, Ghazaryan confirmed that work on the draft remains on schedule, with final conclusions due to be drawn in March and no revisions to the established timeline. The completed text, she said, will be made public once the process is finalized, Caliber.Az reports, citing Armenian media.

In March, the results of our work will be summed up. We will not deviate from the previously set deadlines. By that time, we will have a finished text, which we will publish, the minister emphasized.
