Chairman of Turkmenistans Halk Maslahaty (People's Council), Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov, began a working visit to the U.S. on February 16 to expand economic, investment, and sectoral cooperation, Trend reports via the Turkmen MFA.

During the visit, several meetings were held with representatives of American companies and business councils, including John Rees, President of Nicklaus Companies; Eric Stewart, Executive Director of the Turkmenistan-U.S. Business Council; Chaba Leiko, Regional Director of John Deere; as well as U.S. business figures Steve Wynn, Isaac Perlmutter, and William Koch, Chairman of the Oxbow Group.

After the meetings in the U.S., Berdimuhamedov traveled to Germany for a productive session with Turkmen officials to discuss the nation's involvement in international equestrian events.
