President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan's chief adviser Akif Çağatay Kılıç on Wednesday received Igor Khovayev, Moscow's special representative for the normalization process between Azerbaijan and Armenia.

Kılıç said on the social media platform NSosyal that he received Khovayev along with the Russian delegation at the Presidential Complex in the capital Ankara.

The meeting addressed the bilateral relations between Ankara and Moscow, the ongoing Baku-Yerevan normalization process aimed at establishing lasting peace between Azerbaijan and Armenia, as well as the latest developments in the South Caucasus, he noted.
