Iraq will not allow any party or anyone to use Iraqi territory as a base for attacks against Iran, Prime Minister Mohammed Shia al-Sudani told Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian over a phone call on Wednesday.

While Iraq is committed to Iran's security and sovereignty, attacks targeting Iraqi territory constitute a violation of sovereignty, and undermine Baghdad's efforts to end the war and return to dialogue, Sudani said, according to a statement by his office on US social media company X.
