
WHITE SUPREMACISTS SEE THEIR EUROPEAN CITIZENS' INITIATIVE END IN SHAMBLES

A European citizens initiative launched earlier this year by two white supremacists seeking the mass deportation of people through so-called remigration has been formally rejected by the European Commission.

It will not be registered by the commission, said Roxana Mînzatu, the EU commissioner for social rights.

Speaking to reporters in Brussels on Wednesday (22 July), Mînzatu said the initiative lacked a legal basis. A more detailed brief said the initiative would have constituted discrimination grounded on race and ethnic origin.
