Georgian Prime Minister Irakli Kobakhidze said that Georgias strategic geographic location represents an important resource that should be fully utilized in all areas, 1TV.ge reported.

We are focused on expanding our connections. We are very active, including in the Asian direction. We have had many important visits and meetings. We have close relations with Central Asian countries, as well as with our neighbors □ Azerbaijan, Armenia, and Türkiye □ and we want to develop these relations even further, Kobakhidze told journalists in Singapore.

According to the Prime Minister, Georgias geographic position, along with its free trade agreements with various countries, creates strong foundations for attracting foreign interest in economic cooperation.
