Two high-level US Trump administration emissaries crashed the Shanghai Cooperation Organization summit in the Kyrgyz capital Bishkek, holding talks with top Central Asian leaders and disrupting any appearance of unity among the gatherings attendees.

Leading participants in the SCO summit, including top officials from China, Russia and Iran, sought to strengthen what amounts to an anti-US coalition dedicated to diminishing Washingtons global economic influence. Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian, for example, pushed a plan to de-dollarize the global economy.

The summiteers adopted a communique on September 1 that in part assailed the United States for its ongoing military and economic campaign against Iran, saying US actions violate the principles and norms of international law and the UN Charter and create serious risks to international peace, security and stability.
