NEW CONSTITUTION TO MAKE ARMENIAN'S STATUS AS SOLE STATE LANGUAGE UNAMENDABLE, SAYS PARLIAMENT SPEAKER

- 03.11.2026

ArmenPress (2 November 2026)

National Assembly Speaker Ruben Rubinyan said the new Constitution would make the article establishing Armenian as the Republic of Armenias sole state language unamendable.

Rubinyan made the remarks in a video posted on his Facebook page.

Under the new Constitution, the article establishing Armenian as the Republic of Armenias sole state language will become unamendable. This means that, unlike under the current Constitution, it will no longer be possible to amend that article and, consequently, change the state language or add other state languages. Why is this important? Because this will protect the main pillar of our national identity: our language, the Parliament Speaker said.
