Dialogue between Armenia and Turkey is quite active and effective, with tangible progress achieved in the process of normalizing relations, Armenias Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Trade Ararat Mirzoyan said during preliminary discussions on the 2027 state budget.

He noted that cooperation between the two countries is reflected in a number of initiatives, including scholarship programs for students, the joint renovation of the historic Ani Bridge, and the organization of business forums.

Mirzoyan said the next Armenian-Turkish business forum, following the one held in Kars, is expected to take place in Armenia early next year. According to the minister, the first forum attracted considerable interest from business communities in both countries.
