The Armenian parliament has passed in the first reading a legislative package introducing special regulations for companies established under international treaties in which the state holds at least a 25% stake.

The amendments will make it possible to advance the process of establishing the company envisaged for the implementation of the TRIPP project.

The package, submitted by the Government, proposes amendments to the Law on Joint-Stock Companies and six related laws. It was adopted at a special session on November 12, with 64 votes in favor. The opposition did not participate in the session.
