Armenia and Türkiye are very close to establishing diplomatic relations and fully opening the border, Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan has said.

Asked about Armenia-Türkiye relations during a meeting at the Institute of International and European Affairs in Dublin, Pashinyan said that tangible changes have taken place in relations with Türkiye in recent years, also referring to trade ties.

Türkiye has opened its roads for exports from Armenia and imports into Armenia, although not directly through our land border, but through the territory of Georgia. However, this is a real change in the situation. I am confident that in the near future we will achieve full normalization of relations with Türkiye, Pashinyan said.
